Project Management

Installing or upgrading a communication system to support mission critical operations requires professional leadership.

Put your worries to rest concerning timelines, impact and hidden cost by allowing Ascom's certified professionals to manage the Ascom project lifecycle.

Installation

Rapid advancements in communication technology can yield amazing efficiencies. Ascom provides installation services to harmonize each technology and capability. Ascom holds high standards and requirements for members of an elite installation team so that they can operate in a proficient manner with clear targets. Minimize lead-time, minimize downtime and minimize project related cost by using Ascom installation services.

Commissioning

The process of introducing a new technology and a new way of communicating can be intimidating. Your ability to manage uncertainties and meet timelines will require improvisation. Having Ascom specialists on-site to assist during the commissioning stage of a project will put you in the best position to address unforeseen challenges in a timely manner.

Clinical Training

Clinicians need to be efficient and effective to meet objectives for patient satisfaction and patient safety. Ascom puts emphasis on enabling and supporting your health care staff by offering professional training for every user. Ascom employs Registered Nurses with extensive clinical backgrounds who can relate to the daily challenges in a clinical environment.

Clinical Consultation

Gauging the point of diminishing return and balancing the information flow that comes with new capabilities is only accomplished by individuals with years of daily experience working in a clinical environment. Ascom staffs Clinical Application Specialists who are experienced Registered Nurses with exceptional certifications and qualifications to provide Clinical Consultation. Allow Ascom to provide critical guidance during the project lifecycle and optimize your investment in communications.
